"My Dear Sir: Kindly accept and convey to the members of the Sound Money Men's Association my hearty thanks for an invitation to attend your dinner on Feb. 26. It was a pleasure to me to attend it and to meet the many gentlemen who were present. I am sure that the meeting was a success and that it will be remembered as one of the most successful of the kind ever held in New York City."

"I wish for your association the greatest success in its special and very important object. We must make every effort to bring to the attention of our business interests and all our citizens the importance of sound money."

"We cannot adopt a different policy than that of sound money, with its face the world over, and constantly the same dollar of value, without trouble and distress in the future. We must make every effort to bring to the attention of our business interests and all our citizens the importance of sound money."

BRYAN GIVES A PAY SHOCK.

TO FULL GALLERIES, A HALF FULL FLOOR, AND 55 EMPTY BOXES.

It is stated that this year has no connection with the year that "Busted"—Bryan says that the money question is simple, in his opinion, and he gives a pay shock.

William J. Bryan, who attracted fame as the Boy orator of the Platte and later as the candidate of the Populist party for President of the United States, came to town yesterday to speak two pieces. He spoke the first of them last night at Carnegie Music Hall under the auspices of the organization known as the New York State Bi-Metallic League, of which Mr. Bryan is president.

The second piece, which was to be given by keeping the Senate in session if the Assembly were to adjourn, Senator Ellsworth and Senator Stranahan took the other view, and referred to the fact that the Assembly had already passed the General Appropriation bill, which had not yet been considered by the Senate.

"The Grady amendment was lost, and the resolution for the adjournment of the Assembly was passed. Senator Ellsworth gave notice that if there should be a lack of a quorum any day this week he should move a call of the house. In the Assembly Mr. Nixon offered a concurrent resolution, which was adopted, that the Senate should adjourn until the 10th of March."

Mr. Bryan, who was seated in the front row of the gallery, was the only one who remained in the hall after the adjournment of the Assembly. He was the only one who remained in the hall after the adjournment of the Assembly.

Leonard H. Goldmint, a fruit dealer at 25 East Twentieth street, whose home is at 14 North New York, New Rochelle, was killed by a New York, New Haven and Hartford train yesterday morning.

He was found on the long curve on the main line just this side of the junction with the Harlem branch, by the crew of a freight train running before 3 o'clock. Standing guard over his master's body and very unwilling to have it touched was a foreman named Tuck, that, with a spaniel, was allowed to run loose about Goldmint's house at night.

Goldmint was well to do, but had been much worried over business troubles. Always a nervous man, and quick to act on sudden ideas, he had been especially erratic in his behavior for the last few weeks. He frequently arose at night and wandered about the house. He was not known to have been a somnambulist, though he did not always appear fully himself during these nocturnal wanderings. Within the past week, however, he had been less so. ## TABLEAU A BIG SUCCESS.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC ASSEMBLAGE GREETS THEIR PRODUCTION.

The Garden Concert Hall filled, boxes, floor, and galleries—The Tableau Beautifully Produced—For Mr. Mary's Free Hospital.

The tableaux in which some of the guests at the Garden Concert Hall appeared in the costume for the benefit of St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children, in the Concert Hall of the Madison Square Garden last evening, drew an audience that filled the hall, floor, boxes, and galleries.

The programme was scheduled to begin at 9:30, and people began arriving soon after 9 o'clock. Five gentlemen in uniform guarded the entrance to the building, and two within the vestibule, one at either side of the doorway on the sidewalk, and two at the curb. The audience, while highly and critically appreciative of the tableaux, were as much interested in each other. Greetings were exchanged in the most friendly manner. The time before the curtain went up and the intervals, and there was more visiting than at the opera.

There were audible regrets at the absence or distance of some acquaintances who could have been of service in designating the individuals on the stage.

"Oh, Sally were only here! She'd tell us who is who," one young woman said. And there were others who spoke similarly.

Among the men and women in the tableaux there was apparent a sense of verity that could not have been felt at the ball, for they were acting the parts that they dressed, instead of acting in an unfeeling way. This was more marked as the programme advanced. In the first picture, wherein Miss McKeever, Miss Kean, Miss Jones, Mr. Armstrong and C. F. Bishop represented "Marie Stuart's First View of Elizabeth" (who was called "Elizabeth" in the tableau), it was beautiful in color and arrangement.

Mr. La Farge, as a Japanese "Herald of the Dawn," produced the practical effect of standing between the first appearance and the recollections of the audience.

There was profound staidness and exquisite grace in "The Rencontre," presented by Mrs. Trine and Mr. Lebr. as the group of three, by Miss McKeever, Miss Kean, Miss Jones, Mr. Armstrong and C. F. Bishop represented "Marie Stuart's First View of Elizabeth" (who was called "Elizabeth" in the tableau), it was beautiful in color and arrangement.
